

The FCC needs to leave XM Radio alone. XM Radio has the right to broadcast and I have the right to pay for services I want and desire. The National Association of Broadcasters does not provide the services I want and chose to purchase. Do not cave into a tired and old formats in broadcasting today that is riddled with advertisements and wasted time. Times are changing and to bad The National Association of Broadcasters and their affiliates did not see the writing on the wall that they are "dead on arrival."
